

I. READING

Alice and Edward Wilson live in Lincoln in the north-east of England. They are both thirty-nine. They have a daughter and a son. Ben is fourteen years old and Sara is eleven. Edward is a Maths teacher and Alice works in a supermarket. The Wilsons live in a flat. There are 4 bedrooms, a kitchen, a living room, a study, a bathroom, a toilet and a small hall in their flat. They also have a balcony. They can see a famous cathedral from it.

Ben and Sara start school at nine o'clock and finish at quarter past four. They usually walk to school, but they come back home by car with their father. They do their homework and then the family have dinner at seven o'clock. After dinner Sara usually watches TV or reads a book, but Ben plays computer games or watches football matches on TV.

On Saturdays Ben plays football with his friends and they ride a bike in the park. Sara usually helps her mother cook dinner and tidy the flat. On Sundays, the Wilsons usually go to the country to visit Ben and Sara's grandparents. They are farmers. The children love being on the farm where they can feed sheep, ponies, geese, ducks and goats.
